

FAMILY AWARENESS NETWORK (FAN), NEW TRIER HIGH SCHOOL, the
NEW TRIER COMMUNITY RESPONSE NETWORK and MakeltBetter.net present:

“Standards of GoodWork: Its Nature, Its Nurture”

A professional forum, with keynote lecture by Howard Gardner, Ph.D.

Friday, October 30, 8:00-11:30 AM

Cornog Auditorium, New Trier High School/Northfield
7 Happ Rd., Northfield, 60093

How does one stay true to a moral, ethical career path when operating in a world that is at times neither? Howard Gardner, Ph.D., the Hobbs Professor of Cognition and Education at the Harvard Graduate School of Education, will discuss the renowned GoodWork® Project (goodworkproject.org), a large-scale collaboration of social scientists founded by Dr. Gardner and others that seeks to identify, investigate and foster “good work,” work that is excellent, ethical and engaging.

Whether you work or volunteer in education, business, government or the arts, Dr. Gardner’s presentation of the GoodWork® Project’s findings and applications will offer valuable insight into how an individual can do good work in an economy dominated by market forces and competition, especially among younger professionals.

At 10:00 AM, following Dr. Gardner’s presentation and Q&A, Tom Golebiewski, Ph.D., Chair, Social Work Dept. at New Trier High School, will lead a community discussion about the implications, application and meaning that GoodWork® can have in a community and school. The discussion will focus on deepening our understanding of Dr. Gardner’s three E’s, and examining how the New Trier community can foster intellectual character, citizenship, creativity and ethical responsibility as we prepare our youth for their future.

RSVPs, though not required, are strongly recommended. Please contact Dr. Golebiewski’s assistant, Kateri Morton, at mortonk@newtrier.k12.il.us or 847-784-2251.
